AuSable Being Patrolled Now

A patrol by a deputized canoeists is now being carried on, mainly over the weekends, on the AuSable River downstream from Grayling. Bob Ruddy, whose home is on the river, is carrying out this patrol with his payment for the time spent coming from an anonymous donor.

Ruddy is authorized to give tickets to violators of the state law on littering or any other unlawful act which he may come across. However, he says, his biggest task so far has been to answer questions for river travelers.

One day on the weekend before last, he took on the job of removing a fish hook from the ear of a trout seeker. He said the biggest problem on the river is from Grayling to Stephens Bridge where the heaviest volume of canoe traffic is encountered.

A very large problem and one very difficult to cope with is a mixture of young adults and either beer or wine, Ruddy stated. Another problem maker is "horse-play" which usually results in a canoe over turning with the dumping of all of the contents into the river.

If this experimental patrol works out, as it seems to be in the first few weekends, it is hoped to have more funds available by next spring to increase the program. Ruddy stated that the Conservation Department, the Crawford County Sheriff's office, canoe livery operators have all cooperated with him to try to make the program successful. Also needed, Ruddy said, was the cooperation of each and every property owner on the river in reporting of incidents.

GuILD NIGHT AT PLAYHOUSE

TRAFFIC TRAINING SURVEY MADE IN COUNTY

A survey of all traffic safety workers in Crawford County was begun this past week as part of a state-wide program recently initiated by the Highway Traffic Safety Center at Michigan State University.

Earl Gierke, a driver education instructor in the local school has been appointed county coordinator for the program. Mr. Gierke will be responsible for determining the number and kinds of traffic workers in the county, their functions and responsibilities, and the training they have received to date.

In announcing Mr. Gierke's appointment, Gordon H. Sheehy, Director of MSU's Traffic Safety Center said similar surveys were now being conducted in the majority of Michigan counties. The surveys will constitute the initial phase of the total program.

The raw data collected in the counties now will be of utmost importance to the overall objectives of the entire program. Sheehy stated. Advisory groups of state and national accident prevention experts will be involved in the second phase of the program to establish standards and training needs for each level and category of traffic worker in Michigan.

In the final phase, the staff of the Highway Traffic Center, MSU's Continuing Education Service, will recommend a plan for training all state workers, which will include guides for administration, financing, organization and available facilities.

CONSUMERS CUTS IN NEW GAYLORD PLANT

GAYLORD — A 70,000-kilowatt turbine generating facility at Consumers Power Company's Gaylord Substation produced power last Wednesday morning shortly after 1 p. m. signaling its official start-up as a source of electric power.

Harry R. Wall, vice president of Consumers Power, pushed the button starting the plant, which can produce power almost instantly for the company's state-wide system, which serves more than 950,000 electric customers of Consumers Power Company.

A group of representatives of Gaylord area civic and governmental organizations, and company officials, attended the ceremony.

The Gaylord facility consists of four turbines, burning oil or gas, and four generators, and is designed for "peaking" and emergency use. Peaking occurs on a power system when demand for power for all uses is at its highest point. Utilities like Consumers Power must have generating facilities available to meet peaks, even though the facilities may otherwise remain idle for long periods.

Viking Gridders Start Football Practice With Two-a-Day Monday

The 1966 Viking football team of the high school in Grayling of the Crawford-AuSable School District began two a day practice sessions under coach Mike Wieland on Monday of this week.

With 62 hopeful players out and an extra ten or so more expected by next week, the Vikings have the largest turnout in many, many years. Coach Wieland assisted by coaches Don Ferguson and Frank Smith are driving the pigskinners hard as most came out in fine physical shape. This week is being taken up with reaction drills but hard, hitting scrimmage is expected by the week's end, Coach Wieland said.

Area football fans are in for their best season of several years as the varsity has a slate of five home games with the junior varsity scheduled to appear four times before the home folks. The total of nine games is the best for Crawford County in some time.

The Viking mentor has 24 juniors and seniors out for his varsity team with 13 returning veterans. They are: Pat Thompson, Tom Hatfield, Dave Nethers, Howard Madsen, Bruce Feldhauser, Mike Corlew, Steve Engstrom, Paul King, Bill Kraus, Chauncey Carr, Dave Bailey, Steve LaGore and Barry Holmes. In addition to this nucleus an additional nine will move up from the junior varsity or come out for football for the first time.

Jayvee players moving up will be Ben Pettyjohn, Richard Meoak and Dave McGuire. Those coming out for the first time but looking very good are: Donn Broeker, Steve DuBois, Roger Hubbell, Dan Moore, Mark Nelson, Randy Meoak and Larry Beery.

Work was also started this week on the erection of a new electric scoreboard at the football gridiron at the Grayling Memorial Recreation area. The new scoreboard measures 8 1/2 feet high by 18 feet long and from its size and lighting should keep the crowd up to date on the game at all times.

Coach Frank Smith, besides helping with the varsity football practice,

CEDERBERG WOULD EXEMPT SERVICEMEN FROM AIRPLANE TAX

Removal of the federal transportation tax on airline tickets purchased by members of the Armed Forces while traveling on leave is proposed in legislation introduced in Congress by Rep. Elford A. Cederberg, 10th District, Michigan.

Although the law imposing transportation tax on all railroad and airline tickets, which means a serviceman traveling home to see his family is not taxed if he travels by train but if he travels by plane, to have more time with his family, he has to pay the tax. "More and more young men are being called into the Armed Forces, and one way we can show our appreciation for their service is to eliminate this tax on their airplane transportation when they travel to see their loved ones," Congressman Cederberg said.

The Administration is proposing continuation of air travel taxes and Cederberg is seeking an amendment that would exempt military personnel traveling on leave.

Take A Bow, Crawford County

We feel that the voters of Crawford County should highly commend for their action in making the county a one school district entity. We feel strongly that they also should be highly commended for voting the extra millage to operate the needed schools.

This is brought into focus even more when one attaches Father-Cadillac with Mayor Cavanaugh in and march up to Lansing to ask Governor George Romney and the State Legislature for more funds with which to run their school system.

How low falls the World War II "Arsenal of Democracy", how low falls the Motor Capital of the World, here a great United States midwestern metropolis with its many and varied industries and other huge investments all of which can produce taxes, begging or handouts.

Yet here in the same State is a small, (fourth smallest in population in Michigan) far northern county that has over 70 per cent of its land tied up by the State or Federal governments, running its own show, coming up with what is needed to not only run their school system but to vastly improve it, widen its curriculum, staff the schools and provide needed books, materials and other items.

Yes, we feel that Crawford County can very well be proud of itself on this score . . . and this comparison would make the voters, parents and school officials of the City of Detroit hang their heads in shame. R.W.S.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Cottrell of South Gate, Los Angeles, California, announce the engagement of their daughter, Anita to Sgt. Douglas Bishop of Shaker Heights, Cleveland, Ohio. During the same afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Hunter were guests at a miscellaneous shower given in their honor.

The peak of Michigan's famed blackberry crop is expected to be reached this week with little prospect of a complete harvest of this year's bumper crop in sight because of the acute scarcity of pickers. Conservation department officials declare that although this year's crop cannot be said to equal last year's record yield, the 1943 crop is exceptionally good. Department officials believe that despite the high market price on blackberries, the shortage of pickers will seriously blunt the possible harvest of berries.

Quite a scare last Thursday when a 7 year old Bancroft boy from Grayling got lost up near the Indian farm. State Police and a crew of men from the airport formed a posse and started searching. LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mr. Strong: I am now nearing the end of my stay here in Mexico. So far I have survived the bus drivers and other hazards of living here.

Last week my Mexican family sent me to Guadalajara to stay with some relatives of theirs. All the people I met there were very nice and very generous with me. Generosity is one trait all Mexicans seem to have in common.

If you mention that you like something they will give it to you. Guadalajara is in the state of Jalisco, northwest of Mexico by about 300 miles. It doesn't have as high an altitude as Mexico City and the climate is more tropical.

Guadalajara is the second largest city in the republic and has a population of about 1,500,000. It doesn't seem too much like a large city, however, especially because there are only two buildings that have over three or four floors, and one of them is an American hotel. Also life in general seems much slower there and more old-fashioned. In some places you can still find Indians that speak only Nahuatl. You also notice an abundance of horses being used as a mode of transportation. You especially see a great deal of carriages (horse-drawn carriages) which are a great attraction for the tourists.

Guadalajara is mainly a tourist center instead of an industrial one, and there are many things for tourists to see.

One of these is the San Juan de

Dios market, where everything is sold from serapes—groceries to live animals. It is all enclosed in a very large building which has little ventilation and is illuminated mainly by bare bulbs hanging from the ceiling. The whole place is crowded with merchandise and as you walk up and down the narrow aisles the vendors try and get your attention. It's very interesting—but it's not too safe to carry anything valuable with you.

There are a great many churches there, and one that is especially beautiful is the cathedral, which is in the heart of town and is surrounded on all four sides by plazas which form a cross.

A little way outside the city is the basilica which houses the image of the Virgin of Zapopan. She is the patron saint of Guadalajara and was supposed to have brought the monks here from Spain. On the day I arrived, the people were celebrating her day. On that day the image is carried through the streets to visit each of the churches. The streets were all decorated with paper streamers hung from roof to roof to form a canopy over the street. The churches also were highly decorated and filled with flowers.

I stayed in Guadalajara for a week and had a very nice time, but I was happy to get back home to Mexico City. I had missed it very much. I know it will be very hard to leave here.

Sincerely,

Lynn Elsey

LOCAL MALE POPULATION 15 TONS TOO HEAVY

(Special to the Avalanche)
New York — What residents of Crawford County weigh nowadays and what they should weigh, according to medical opinion, are two entirely different things.

The male part of the population is particularly out of line in this respect. The average man in this county is heavier than he once was.

What with eating more and exercising less, he tips the beam at about six pounds more than his father did at his age.

The total increase, for the 1,500 local males over age 25, amounts to some 9,000 pounds.

As to the women, they are overweight also, but not to the same extent. Actually, compared with the women of the previous generation, they are slimmer. Fashions have had a lot to do with it. When style dictates a slender look, they proceed to diet and reduce.

The figures are based on nationwide studies conducted by the Public Health Service, the Society of Actuaries and others.

They show that the average American man over 25, of medium height and frame, weighs 168 pounds today, well over the 149 pounds listed as desirable from the standpoint of health.

For Crawford County's male population, which is presumed to be overweight to the same degree, to get down to that average, it would have to take off approximately 29,000 pounds, or about 15 tons.

With reference to the women, the results of the survey indicate that those in the 18 to 24 age group now average 129 pounds, as against the 119 pounds considered best for health. Above that age, the average is 145 pounds, much more than the 131 pounds thought desirable.

According to the experts, the best way to lose weight and keep it off is to step up physical activity and to make a permanent change in eating habits.

An energy table, drawn up by the American Dietetic Association, shows the importance of exercise in burning off excess calories.

To use up the 386 calories in a serving of spaghetti, for instance, would necessitate walking for 76 minutes, or riding a bicycle for 48 minutes, or swimming for 35 minutes.

The 183 calories in a portion of ice cream would involve 37 minutes of walking, 24 of bicycling or 17 of swimming.

Natural Resources And Community Development

By David D. Olson
County Extension Natural Resource Agent

The Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University is actively engaged in a program of Natural Resources and Community Development in 23 northern Michigan Counties. The area of Natural Resources will receive the major educational effort along with a continued program in Agriculture, Home Economics, Marketing and 4-H Youth.

Trained professional staff members of Michigan State University operate the county offices in the Extension Program. These men are titled County Extension Natural Resource Agents.

The primary objective of the program is to develop and expand peoples awareness and knowledge about Natural Resources in Michigan.

This is an educational program operated jointly by federal, state and county government.

The program will emphasize forestry and forest products, fish and wildlife, tourism and recreation, land and water and community development.

Local Natural Resource Agents will provide the public with the latest information and research findings dealing with Natural Resources.

Agents can identify local problems and suggest or guide solutions to those problems. You the people, must take the initiative to solve the problems.

The Cooperative Extension Service will provide basic information on land and land use changes and lead community discussions and exploratory sessions on such problems.

Through the assistance of local agents, planning and zoning boards are created, land use and recreational plans are developed and problems of communities are brought to the attention of local citizens.

The Natural Resource program of the Cooperative Extension Service is offering leadership in education to the citizens of Northern Michigan.

There's a strong possibility that in five more minutes, someone may break one of those balloons, and these well-mannered little ladies and gentlemen will suddenly dissolve into giggles, and no matter what the consequences they are learning something.

Even such a simple situation teaches children the rudiments of getting along with one another. This is a lesson that comes naturally. We aren't born with bull-in-a-china-manner. We aren't born with the grunts we need to acquire. These we have to learn — and, in turn, to teach our children.

These children are being taught, both at home and in the Church. Are yours?

Letters To The Editor

August 21, 1966
Mulheim, Ruhr
Germany

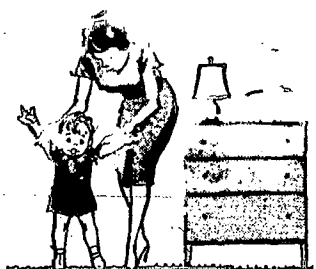

Dear Editor:
My family and I have just returned from spending three weeks in the Sauerland. This region is part of the Rhine Slate Mountains.
We spent most of our time walking on the mountain paths and to the villages. We were fortunate to have one week of sunshine after five weeks of rain.

The small villages near Rim-berg are very charming but far from modern. The buildings are all together (barns on the main streets) with fields surrounding them. In some villages there is a history of the house painted on it and even the small village has a small, six or seven sided church.

In one village we attended a Sport Festival which is similar to our Trout Festival. A king is chosen by his shooting ability. There was a parade and a small carnival. We also drove to Waldeck, where the castle which was the home of the grandmother (a German princess) of the Queen of the Netherlands, is located.
In Konigstein, near Frankfurt, we stayed two days in the Sonnenhof. This is an international hotel and was the hunting castle of the Baron Rothschild. While in Konigstein we visited the castle Kron-berg where the last German emperor's mother lived.
Returning to Mulheim we drove along the Rhine River from Wiesbaden to Köln (Cologne). I enjoyed this very much as there were many interesting castles (the legends explained by my mother), picturesque villages and beautiful country. We had lunch in the hotel where President Kennedy stayed near Bonn.

I have only two weeks left of my summer in Germany and as I look back on the past weeks, I think what an educational and memorable experience this has been. I would like to again express my gratitude to all those who helped make this opportunity possible for me.

Auf wiedersehen,
Nancy Knibbs

Crawford County Avalanche
Dear Sir:

It is with particular interest that I noted the report of a resolution adopted by the Crawford County Board of Supervisors at their August 1968 session, and its application to matters concerning the Military Board.

It is presumed that this resolution applies to all National Guard units using this area and I am sure that it must. I would also wish to add, for myself and many of the same opinion, that the matter is a number of years too late in its adoption.

I am sure that a good number of our population do see men in uniform and army vehicles on the road. Do they also see the littering of our roads with bottles and cans? Do they see the large number of army vehicles spreading out every night over the adjacent counties for an evening of pleasure, at various taverns, and by their use of such vehicles at the taxpayers' expense?

If it is so necessary to play during maneuvers and training why are not these personnel obliged to use their own personal vehicles? Where are the Guard Commanders who condone these practices?

Does the public know that one guard unit literally stole public picnic tables from the Crawford County Road Commission and the Department of Conservation's Hartwick Pines State Park and Jones Lake Campground, and does the public know that it was only upon threat of public prosecution that the tables were returned.

Does the public know that members of a guard unit used public facilities in the above mentioned state park, for showers and clean-up facilities which are predicated upon campground and population size, and reserved for the use of the public paying for the camping facilities. Correctly, they were told to discontinue using the building and to keep out.

Also while visiting at Hartwick Pines last summer, my Dad, who is supervisor of this park, had to call the Provost Marshalls office three times in one night to get M. P. out there to quiet several different truck loads of guardsmen who were using the public phone, and while waiting for calls had a drunken brawl, using profane language and by so doing disturbed all the campers. This took place between 12:00 and 2:00 in the morning. This goes on night after night chasing a lot of good tourist business away from the park.

My observations, the necessity of the action upon the part of the Board of Supervisors, bring up the questions.

Do National Guard units feel that they are a law within themselves, to do as they please with property within our community? Don't they feel they should conduct themselves responsibly when in our community?

Don't National Guard personnel in authority feel that they should re-evaluate themselves and the actions of their men in the field? Don't they feel that some better evidence of fiscal responsibility is necessary? Don't they feel they should underwrite the cost of road repairs necessary by their vehicles use of such roads?

Don't they feel that as property owners within the county that we too have rights and privileges of access, and that they are only
